Louisiana Public Health Institute
LPHI is a public health institute that champions health within systems and in all communities. We uncover complementary connections across sectors to combine social, economic and human capital needed to align action for health.

We operate across sectors to design and implement solutions that advance health for all. We collect, analyze, translate, and share information to support decision making and usher in the next generation of health.

We engage and support communities to translate evidence into strategy to optimize health ecosystems.

We align with our partners in the commitment to address the determinants of health. To create sustainable healthy environments, we promote stewardship in all resources, capacity in all communities, equity in all policies, and opportunity in all places.
